download and save any files the learner wishes to keep, print the course content or do a final review of the course discussion boards, etc. Take Note, however, that unless given a time extension, the learner can no longer do any of the assignments, submit, or interact with fellow learners and the facilitator during this period. After this, the course will be archived and can be found by clicking Courses > All Courses from the Canvas Dashboard.”

- It is highly recommended that learners read newsletters that we send periodically to learn more about course promotions and new courses offered.

Certificate & Letter of Completion

- A Cornell University certificate shall be awarded to a learner upon completing all courses in his/her certificate.
- An electronic copy can be downloaded from your student account, or you can purchase a printed or plaque version.
- A learner only taking a course shall receive a letter of completion, which can be downloaded through his/her student account.

Course Schedules

- The learner is advised to choose a course schedule starting at least 3 weeks in advance to have a better chance of reserving a seat.
- eCornell courses usually commence twice a month, every Wednesday, and are filled in quickly.
- eCornell reserves the right to adjust the course start date if necessary.
- If the course start date is full, an alternative schedule will be provided to the learner.

Extension & Refund

- If the learner cannot complete within the stipulated course end date, 1-2 days extension might be granted if a written request is submitted to the facilitator.
- Approval of extension is at the facilitator's sole discretion and will not be granted if the learner did not complete 50% of the course modules.
- Learners who have paid the full retail price for a certificate, are allowed 30 days to change their minds for a full refund (less banking/transaction charges). If you have consumed one or more courses, these will be deducted from the payment on the certificate at the retail per-course price. No refunds will be given for individual course payments, special promotions, or discounts.
- There could be instances where the learner's preferred course date is already full. The learning consultant will provide the learner with the earliest and most available course date for enrollment.
